A request from a Dixon High School student sent to a long time ago graduate of her high school and his response to her letter brought about the scene shown in this photograph. Petra Rusev, now a senior in Dixon High School, while a sophomore and when funds were being sought to rehabilitate the stage in the auditorium, conceived the idea of writing to former governor of California Ronald Reagan who was active in dramatics when he was a student at DHS during the later 1920s, asking for a contribution. She received a warm and friendly letter and a check for $50. Tuesday the two met for the first time. (Telegraph Photo)

4,300 jam gym to hear Reagan

By ROBERT H. NELLIS

It was a standing room crowd estimated at 4,300 which converged on Lancaster Gymnasium Tuesday to greet a home town boy who returned as candidate for President of the United States.

Dixon High School students were released from classes to join the thousands of other persons who crowded into the gymnasium to hear what the 1928 graduate of DHS had to say.

As everyone knows, Ronald Reagan, two-term governor of California, and now contender for the Republican nomination to run for President, had a long career as a Hollywood movie actor and is considered an eloquent speaker who is never at a loss for words.

However, as he faced the people in the gymnasium, Reagan confessed, "It is something new for me to have a loss of words, but this day has been mounting upon me up to this moment."

"I grew up here and this is the town that certainly shaped my life."

He drew thundering applause from the students recalling when he was a football player at DHS, that to beat Sterling was the high point of any season.

In fact, this was emphasized as B. J. Frazier, principal of DHS when Reagan was a student, hypothetically proposed two choices for his former student. Said Frazier, "You can choose either one but not both."

The first proposition was that in four years he would be governor of California.

The other was that the next Saturday, he would catch two passes to beat Sterling and win the conference championship.

Frazier, answering for his former student, declared, "I can tell you if Ronald had had that choice when he was a student here, he would never have been governor of California, he would have chosen to beat out Sterling for the conference championship."

Reagan plans to step up drive for votes in his native state

TAMPICO, Ill. (AP) — With his own poll showing him nine percentage points behind President Ford in Illinois, presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan plans some extensive campaigning to gain ground in his native state.

Reagan was due back in Illinois today after spending Tuesday night in New Hampshire to get results of the nation's first primary Tuesday.

Earlier Tuesday, he visited his birthplace, Tampico, as part of a two-day whirlwind visit of eight Illinois communities.

A campaign spokesman said a Reagan camp poll in Illinois in early January showed "about a nine-point spread, with Ford ahead (of Reagan)." But the spokesman, Lyn Nofziger, declined to say what percentage either candidate garnered in the poll.

"We'll do some more polling before the primary," he said.

Aides say Reagan probably will return to Illinois for three or four days the week before the primary March 16, and could be back more times than that.

President Ford is expected to make at least one campaign visit to the state before the primary, but nothing official has been announced. His son, Jack, 23, begins campaigning next week in Illinois on the President's behalf.

During Reagan's current swing through the state, he has campaigned almost as a favorite son, noting his past ties to the communities he visited.

"Oh my, such memories here," said Reagan in Tampico, where he returned for his first visit in a quarter of a century.

Outside the community of about 850, signs on fenceposts read "Welcome home, Dutch," a Reagan nickname in his youth.

More than 1,200 persons showed up to hear Reagan speak at Tampico High School, and he made repeated reference to his early life in Tampico, where he lived until he was 8.

Reagan even was introduced to one of his old grade school teachers, Gladys Jamison. He said he had never dreamed he would return to Tampico as a presidential hopeful and "will guarantee that Miss Jamison never believed that."

"So there are two of us here for sure who are greatly surprised," he said.

Reagan was introduced to numerous old friends and classmates and said: "You could get dazed in a warm bath of nostalgia."

Later on he moved to the tiny downtown area, where he was born in the second story of a structure that is now the village administration building.

Among numerous gifts he received was a collection of souvenirs from the town's centennial celebration last year and the man who presented them said: "We expect to see those in the Oval Room of the White House pretty soon."

Reagan tried to get to the upstairs apartment where he was born but it was locked and no key could be found.

Before leaving Tampico, Reagan climbed atop the bumpers of two parked cars to bid goodbye to the hundreds of residents who lined the brick-and-wood storefronts.

"I can't say hello or go around to meet you," he said. "All I can say is I'll come back, but I have to leave now."

At the school he had promised to return both if nominated and if elected. Some residents had been disappointed at his failure to show up for the centennial celebration last year.

Reagan then moved on to Sterling and to Dixon, where he spent much of his teenage years and played on the Dixon High School football team.

More than 3,800 persons jammed the high school gymnasium to hear him speak.

Among them was his former high school drama coach.

"You know that this is the town in which I grew up, this is the town certainly that shaped my life," Reagan said.

Reagan Monday had visited Quincy, which he noted he had visited as a youngster, and then Monmouth, where he stopped at another house he once had lived in.

His campaign swing today will take him to Champaign, Mattoon and Charleston.

Carter leads Demo field

Ford barely edges Reagan in New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Ford edged out Ronald Reagan in New Hampshire's leadoff primary, and Jimmy Carter strengthened his claim to frontrunner status with a comfortable triumph in the crowded Democratic field.

With only partial returns from one precinct missing in what had been a night-long see-saw race, Ford had 54,786 or 51 per cent to Reagan's 53,544 or 49 per cent.

Former Georgia Gov. Carter defeated four major candidates on Tuesday's Democratic ballot. His percentage total dropped one point to 29 per cent in late returns today. Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall was second with 24 per cent and Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh was third with 16 per cent.

Ford said today his victory in the New Hampshire primary is "a great springboard" to the Republican nomination and to victory in the November presidential election.

"If we win a couple more, and I think we will, we'll be ready for the finals, and I think we'll win there, too," Ford told a meeting of his senior staff at the White House.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said New Hampshire was Reagan's "best state in the North. He went all out in campaigning ... He gave it his best shot and couldn't win it."

But a tired Reagan told a postmidnight news conference before the final results were in that "I feel what's happened tonight is a victory." He claimed at least a moral victory compared with his stated pre-election goal of 40 per cent of the vote.

Leaving his hotel in Concord this morning, Reagan was asked whether he was still claiming victory over President Ford.

"I certainly am," he said. "No one has ever done this to an incumbent. I think it's great and we'll go on from here."

Presidential adviser Rogers Morton, a former Ford cabinet member, scoffed at claims that Reagan's 49 per cent showing was actually a victory.

"There seems to be a lot of rhetoric about the advantages of coming in second in this primary ... I heard the Democratic candidates say they achieved all their goals when they ran second and third,"

Morton said on NBC's "Today" show. "This is a new politics. I've always felt that it's better to win."

Carter, who like Reagan waged a campaign against the Washington establishment, flashed a victory sign to cheering supporters in a Manchester hotel ballroom and declared he would win the Democratic nomination on the first ballot.

Appearing on the "Today" show, Carter said today that he was satisfied with the outcome first or second. I thought we would for the last month or two. This is a good indication that in New England I can do well."

Carter said he would run an active campaign in advance of the March 2 Massachusetts primary. But, in an interview on the CBS "Morning News," said opposition from Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace will provide the "big test" for him when the two Southerners meet in the Florida primary on March 9.

Carter said Wallace must do as well in Florida as he did in 1972 when he won the primary. Carter added, "I'm convinced and determined that he will not do as well in '76 as he did in '72."

Like Carter, Udall had campaigned in New Hampshire for more than a year. Udall said his showing vaulted him to the front of the liberal pack.

are nonbinding, attracted the spotlight in the nation's first primary. But voters also cast ballots for 17 Democratic and 21 Republican delegates to the national party conventions.

In that category, despite the closeness of the preference votes, delegates pledged to Ford were leading 19-2. Delegates pledged to Carter held 13 seats and Udall had 4.

With 97 per cent of the anticipated vote counted, the lineup was:

—Carter 22,806 or 30 per cent.
—Udall 18,309 or 24 per cent.
—Indiana Sen. Birch Bayh 12,374 or 16 per cent.

—Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris 8,691 or 11 per cent.

—Sargent Shriver, 1972 Democratic vice-presidential nominee, 6,547 or 9 per cent.

—Minnesota Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey — who has said he will not run for the nomination — 4,255 write-in votes for 6 per cent.

—Wallace 1,019 write-in votes or 1 per cent.

—Ellen McCormack, anti-abortion candidate, 989 votes or 1 per cent.

—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts — who has said he won't be a candidate or accept a draft — 219 write-in votes.

—Carter 22,591 or 30 per cent.

—Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona 18,146 or 24 per cent.

—Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana 12,276 or 16 per cent.

—Former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma 8,628 or 11 per cent.

—Sargent Shriver 6,501 or 9 per cent.

Who really won?

Long struggle for GOP nomination is indicated

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — President Ford's hairbreadth victory over Ronald Reagan in New Hampshire's keynote Republican primary points to a long struggle for the Republican presidential nomination. It signals that a quick knockout blow will be hard to land in the procession of elections to come.

Ford is a winner, and that helps. But the New Hampshire verdict also shows that when they get to the voting booth, Republicans are closely divided between the man who is president and the man who wants to be.

Georgia's Jimmy Carter was the big winner in the first of the presidential primaries, scoring a comfortable victory that makes him the frontrunner among Democratic candidates. There are nine all told.

Carter's new mantle is one that can have drawbacks. But it is a giant step forward for the former governor who came to New Hampshire as a nobody more than a year ago and left with first prize.

"I remember when we couldn't find a microphone," said Carter. He'll find plenty now, for it is both the blessing and the curse of the frontrunning candidate that he faces intense scrutiny every step of the campaign way.

With the ballots counted after an all-night Republican tally awarded Ford his victory, the political caravan breaks camp and moves southward, the Democrats to do battle in Massachusetts next Tuesday, Ford and Reagan to meet again in Florida on March 9.

Ford captured his first statewide political contest with 51 per cent of the vote, a margin of just over 1,300 ballots.

With 94 per cent of the vote counted, Ford had 54,051 to Reagan's 52,706.

Among the Democrats, the Politicians have shown you they are not your hired servants, but are your masters. They pass laws to take your money and increase their own.

Last July 30 the House of Representatives attached a pay raise to a minor postal safety bill as suggested by President Ford.

Effective Oct. 1, 1975 Congressional salaries were increased $2,125 through a 5 per cent cost of living escalator. This scheme was recommended by your slip-in President Ford, the great fighter against inflation, for public officials. From now on Congress gets a 5 per cent increase in pay if they create more inflation. The lawmakers you have voted into office time and again are Adlai Stevenson, whose record is 100 per cent socialistic; Charles Percy, 85 per cent socialistic, and John B. Anderson, 80 per cent socialistic.

Maybe there will not be any more inflation, for they all say they will fight inflation. At least, many people believe them, for they do get a big majority of votes.

Anyone would bet a $100 against a sour apple that we do get more inflation, with higher living costs, unless you elect conservatives in both parties. If your party does not have conservatives for all offices, then vote the American Party, or for an independent.

It is also reported that the House has passed a new plan that would more than double last July's salary increase.

Again, on Dec. 4, 1975, the House passed a tax cut special formula for the dear members of Congress, and not available to the common taxpayer like you. Also Congress has a $3,000 annual deduction for expense of maintaining a second resident in the Washington area.

This bill was also given a special House rule so it passed without debate or a recorded vote. Now why would those honest lawmakers do a thing like that? What do you think of the sneaking crooks you have elected to Congress?

No wonder there is so much crime in America, when the people know what Congress gets away with.

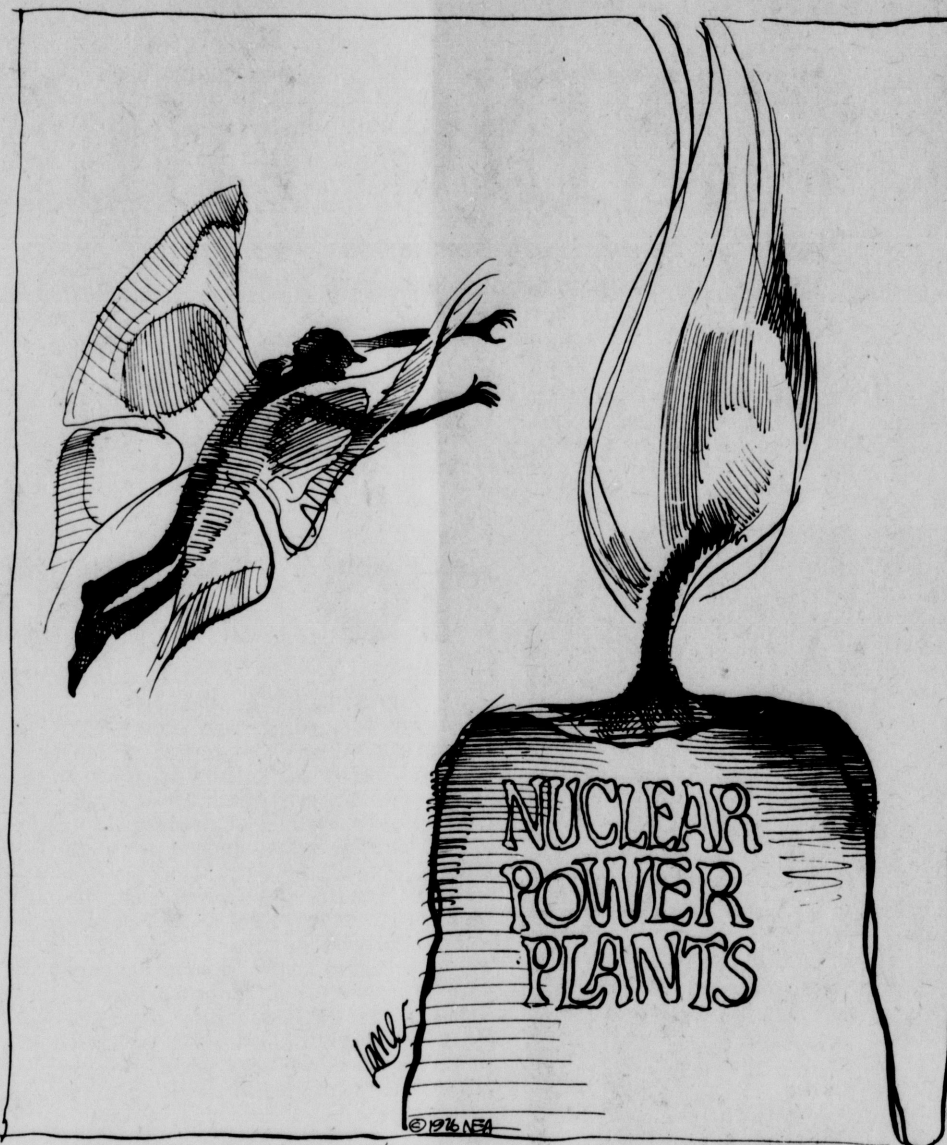

Crime will get worse and so will inflation because the masters in Washington feel they will be re-elected.

No wonder Congress will not pass laws that would stop crime. It is more fun for them to vote more of your money.

Now there are 44 judges bringing suit to have their pay increased on account of the high living cost.

If there is any good news, it might be in the letter Tom Anderson, head of the American Party, received suggesting that he start a union of taxpayers at $1 per year. Members are to make out their income tax report and mail it to the union who would bargain with Congress for the benefit of the working people who have been forgotten by everyone else.

Reagan one of few to talk on freedom

By TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Henry Jackson talks of America as the "party of liberty." Jimmy Carter occasionally mentions the status of those "po' people" who dwell in dictatorial regimes. From time to time Ronald Reagan also suggests to his audiences that human rights are not a growth commodity on the planet.

But for the most part, the presidential candidates do not bother with the subject, it being tangle-some at best and perhaps a bit dated as a debate effort.

Whatever happened to freedom? Like sin, it has ceased to exist as an issue in presidential politics, even as it is ceasing to exist in much of the world. Recently an aide to Morris Udall was asked if the congressman had any comment to make on the situation in India. The reply was "Not unless it has something to do with the primary in Massachusetts." Nobody cares about foreign policy, the aide explained, "we've got plenty of problems here at home to talk about."

Irony this, and particularly during America's Bicentennial. But the fact is, world freedom is no longer a priority matter for the nation—even at a time when the need for it as priority has never been greater. According to the only available measure of this sort of thing, the annual Freedom House survey, the number of people living at liberty in the world has been almost halved in the past four years, from 30 per cent of the population in 1973 to only 19.8 per cent today. And there is no sign of a quick improvement.

Freedom House is a private group, located in New York and operating largely with volunteer help and funding. It was organized 35 years ago for the purpose of lending moral support to Great Britain's struggle against Hitler. Now it is mostly an educational tool, structured to distribute books and paper throughout the world—and to take a rather remarkable annual reading of comparative freedoms in 158 nations and 51 dependent territories.

The survey has its weaknesses, perhaps its biases as well, but it is rich if only because it is the singular monitor of its kind in the world.

According to Freedom House director Leonard Sussman, the most recent survey is the gloomiest in a quarter century. Last year 743.2 million people in eight countries lost their freedoms either wholly or in part, while only 60 million in five countries made any gain.

As of now, Sussman says, 803.6 million people in 57 nations live free, 1.4 billion in 84 nations live partly free, and 1.8 billion in 68 nations live without freedom. Shockingly, this means that four of five people on the globe have limited civil and political rights.

Even for some of those who are free, the trends seem not to be encouraging. Sussman says Sweden, traditionally a nation of boastful liberties, is now so bureaucratic that "government is all but out of the control of the people." Even America, in the grip of post-Watergate reforms, has tampered unwisely with its Constitution, and Sussman says that refinements in the freedom survey may pick up soundings in the United States of new inequities and restrictions.

Unfortunately, whatever soundings the survey makes, and whatever its conclusions, few seem to care—not the presidential candidates and not the government. Sussman has suggested the State Department create its own freedom monitor to help guide the application of foreign policy, in particular foreign aid. He does not favor a hardball line of giving only to countries that are democratically deserving, but believes "there must be some kind of trade-off." Food for freedoms? Sussman says it's worth a try, and in this sense the U.S. is as ever the last best hope for greater world liberties.

That hope is faint, however, so long as the subject of human rights remains off the agenda of American political discussion. Sussman believes that of all the failures of U.S. politicians, the most damaging has been their reluctance to react positively as the people lose sight of the national purpose. What do we stand for? That should be obvious after 200 years. But the sooner we argue it out once again, says Sussman, the sooner we will know for certain.

USSR foreign policy on divergent course

By HENRY J. TAYLOR
Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger privately states that the reason he flies to Moscow so often is because Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko cannot negotiate with the flexibility of Leonid I. Brezhnev.

This is understandable. But we are not faced by a man. We are faced by a system.

Soviet policy runs on alternating current. Our history with the USSR reveals innumerable examples of sudden shifts from "hard line" to "soft line" to gain immediate objectives and comfort us.

This iron-fist, velvet-glove policy is a relentless success. It helps the Soviet to inch forward everywhere in the world: the Mideast, Africa, Latin America, the Far East. We are seeing the rug pulled out from under the United States.

Good international relations are based on the principle of reciprocity. But where is the reciprocity in all this?

We see the difference between the Soviet's superficially conciliatory attitudes and the grim realities of Russia's increasingly massive military power.

The respected International Institute of Strategic Studies in London estimates that the USSR is now spending 10.6 per cent of its gross national product on arms—overwhelmingly the highest in the world.

One of the hidden strengths of the Soviet's alternating-current policy is that millions among us are too disbelieving, unknowing or distracted to recognize it.

The war for the defense of Western civilization is entering its critical stage. Yet millions who should be its passionate defenders, unaware of the nature and extent of their danger, have left the gate wide open and gone to bed.

The warnings carry as little weight today as did Winston Churchill's warnings about Nazi Germany in the 1930s. The postwar years of alarms have apparently created public boredom.

As for Gromyko, his specialty in the USSR is the United States. He knows our country like the Mets know Shea Stadium and proceeds with the assurance of a master plumber.

Anything can happen to Kremlin leaders (witness Khrushchev) but the absolutely astounding thing is that nothing ever happens to Gromyko—and only to Gromyko.

Going all the way back to Stalin's long era, only this phenomenal survivor has surmounted every upheaval, weathered every purge and survived all the vicious infighting in the Stalin, Malenkov, Khrushchev and Brezhnev eras and emerged in place. If a cat has 10 lives, Gromyko has 50.

You cannot achieve this by being supine or contrite (Gromyko is neither) or by hitching your wagon to some Red star. Powerful secret policeman Laurenti Beria, shot in Lubianka prison by his Kremlin colleagues, found that out. Too many rivals push you aside in that land of perpetual conspiracy.

I have known Gromyko 32 years. He represented the USSR at the 1944 Dumbarton Oaks Conference during World War II which prepared the United Nations. Edward R. Stettinius was my classmate at the University of Virginia. When he became Secretary of State, he conducted the Dumbarton Oaks Conference and there introduced me to Gromyko.

He often came to Stettinius' "Horse Shoe Farm" near Orange, Va., and subsequently lived in Washington as the Soviet ambassador. He lived in New York as Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, traveling nearly everywhere in our country. And throughout four years as American ambassador to Switzerland, I suppose I saw Gromyko more often in Geneva during negotiations with the Russians than he saw his own wife and children.

He has a stony face and a dour look. When angry, his eyes blaze like some fatal jewel and to the depths of his soul he honestly considers the United States to be a paper tiger. But he is much easier to be with than you would gather on TV—until you talk business.

Gromyko talks and talks until the United States makes concessions. Then, obtaining generous concessions, he treats as a sign of U.S. weakness what has been inspired by a desire for cooperation and world peace. He effectively practices "gradualism" against us.

Mr. Kissinger's reference to Brezhnev's greater "flexibility" is correct, but not decisive. Both Brezhnev and Gromyko know well how to create our foreign problems. This is their function.

Packaged self-reliance

By DON OAKLEY

Anyone who thinks that the pioneer spirit of self-reliance is long vanished from the American scene ought to skim through the pages of a book published late last year.

The book has no ideology to sell or cause to push. But in showing "how anyone can make anything by ordering do-it-yourself kits through the mail," it is a refreshing antidote to the currently prevalent and gloomy notion that the put-upon American consumer is entirely the captive of the big corporations.

"The Catalog of Kits," by Jeffrey Feinman, is what its title says it is. But while it covers the usual things—needlework and other crafts, model railroads, etc.—that have always been available, it is also an impressive compendium of projects one would not ordinarily place in the do-it-yourself category. Some examples:

—A 25-inch solid-state color television set said to be more advanced than anything yet available on the commercial market.

—A fully aerobatic, high-speed, single-place airplane (which also has a jet-powered version). Or Volkswagen-powered airplanes or gyrocopters, sailplanes and balloons.

—For boating enthusiasts, everything from simple paddleboards to a 21-foot sloop.

—Not only household furniture but complete houses, including a variety of log cabins ranging from the modest to the magnificent and in costs from a few thousand dollars to more than $35,000.

—Musical instruments, from replicas of 17th-century harpsichords to the most modern electronic organs.

At some 200 pages, the catalog offers only a sampling of more than 50,000 kits sold by thousands of companies. Some firms asked that they not be listed because they already "had more business than they could handle."

Not all the kits are less expensive than the finished product, although this is usually the case. But the feeling of accomplishment from building something yourself, the personal satisfaction and educational experience, are not to be measured in terms of dollars.

And as the author points out, you can't complain about shoddy workmanship when you do it yourself.

In what other country is so much available to so many?

Barometer is not rising

The experts are keeping their eyes on a dozen or so economic indices to see which way the country is going. But a better barometer of the national economy than all these is Goodwill Industries, claims an official of the non-profit organization.

And the barometer is not rising. W. Sharon Florer, executive director of the Ohio Valley Goodwill Industries, comes to this conclusion by judging the intake of materials donated to the 156 local Goodwill branches around the country.

"When furniture isn't coming to Goodwill, people are not buying furniture," he says. "When people don't donate refrigerators, it is because they're not buying refrigerators. They are not donating either to us now."

Liz and Burton separating again

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, remarried last year after a divorce, reportedly have agreed to separate again.

The hint of new trouble in the Burton marriage arose when it was learned that a party for Miss Taylor's 44th birthday, arranged for next Friday by producer Alexander Cohen, had been canceled.

"I'm sure that under the circumstances I wouldn't want to be having a party," Miss Taylor was quoted as telling Cohen by telephone early Monday. She also reportedly told him of the decision to separate.

"She said she wouldn't be here," Cohen said, "so there wasn't much point in having the party and I canceled it. Why the change in plans? She told me why, but I'm not going to say any more."

There also were reports that one or both of the Burtons had withdrawn as cohosts of the Tony awards television show April 18.

"I believe Richard still will be a host at the Tony awards as planned," Cohen was quoted as saying. "I didn't feel it was the time to ask Elizabeth whether she would still participate."

The Burtons first were married in 1964 after a romance that began in Rome, while they were making the picture "Cleopatra." It was her fifth marriage, his second.

They separated in 1973 and were divorced June 6, 1974. They were reconciled last September and remarried Oct. 10 in Botswana. Miss Taylor later wrote in a magazine article that their reconciliation was brought about in part by their fear that she had lung cancer — a fear that proved unfounded.

The Burton's attorney, Aaron Frosh, said Monday that the couple remained together in the same suite at the Lombardy Hotel here.

"Mrs. Burton is still at the hotel. I've had no instructions regarding their marriage," Frosh said, declining further comment.

Burton has been in New York appearing in the hit Broadway play, "Equus." He opens formally in the play Thursday night.

Two say they were transferred for cooperating

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Two state employees say they were transferred to different jobs in the state Department of Public Aid for cooperating in what they had been told was a criminal investigation into welfare fraud.

The employees contended in a Circuit Court suit made available Monday that the transfers were designed to "intimidate, coerce and punish" them for cooperating with investigators from the state attorney general's office "for the purpose of curtailing the investigation."

The employees are George C. Michael, former acting chief of the department's Bureau of Medical Audit and Review, and Curtis Fleming, formerly a methods and procedure advisor in the department's analysis section.

The suit names department Director James Trainor and asks that the two employees be reinstated to their old jobs.

A spokesman for Trainor said he would have no comment outside of court on the suit.

In the suit, the two men said they believe Gov. Daniel Walker's attorney, William Goldberg, Trainor and other top public aid officials decided they should be transferred.

Both employees alleged they had notified department officials last summer of "certain suspected irregularities occurring in the handling of cases" and that the department failed to investigate the reports.

They said they were contacted by the attorney general's office in August and were asked to assist "in a criminal investigation."

They said in the suit they agreed to cooperate and did so between August and November.

Michael contended that he was approached Nov. 21, 1975 by Michael Tristano, a section chief in the department, who accused him of "engaging in improper conduct in cooperation with the attorney general and attempted to intimidate and coerce" him to disclose what he and others may have told the investigators.

Fleming, who was hired by the department in April 1974, said he was approached the same day by Tristano and two other public aid officials and was accused of "improper conduct."

The men alleged that after they were warned about their involvement in the investigation, they were transferred to other jobs—Michael to "rewriting the administration manual" and Fleming to a "clerical job."

They said they have asked for their old jobs but were refused.

They said they now are attempting to be reinstated through an established grievance procedure and have been told only that they were transferred for "lack of judgment."

The suit said the men feel the grievance process is "a sham" because it is conducted by the same department that transferred them.

The transfers were made "to intimidate, coerce and punish" the employees for "aiding the attorney general in his lawful investigation of possible criminal conduct both within and without the Department," the suit said.

Galor-Thomas wed

The First United Methodist Church was the setting for the recent double-ring ceremony that united Miss Renee Kay Galor and John Douglas Thomas in marriage. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Galor Jr.,

MR. AND MRS. JOHN THOMAS

Brookville, and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Thomas, Dixon.

The nuptial service was conducted by the Rev. Merle E. Hall, pastor at the church. Providing organ music was Crawford Thomas, Dixon. Miss Jane Cunningham, Polo, was the soloist. Twin arrangements of butterscotch, bronze and gold pompons and candelabra draped with smilax and white satin bows graced the altar.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie designed with a high neckline and square yoke accented with seed pearls and Venice and Cluny lace. The gown featured lantern sleeves with oversleeves of Cluny lace. Venice lace edged her cuffs, collar and waist.

A Camelot cap of Cluny lace and seed pearls secured the three-tiered bridal veil. Her bouquet was a cascade of Wolburn Abbey roses, white miniature carnations, ivy and baby's breath.

Attending as maid of honor was Brenda Baughman, Polo. Bridesmaids were Janet Garkey, Polo; Denise Arnold, and Deanna Thomas, sister of the groom, Dixon. The bride's niece, Suzanne Lewis, Houston, Tex., was flower girl. Each of the attendants wore identically styled floor-length polyester knit gowns, featuring an empire bodice with a deep, ruffled bib of white Cluny lace and long, fitted sleeves with the same ruffled lace. The maid of honor and flower girl wore pine green gowns and the bridesmaids were attired in rust-colored gowns. They wore crescents of bronze pompons and baby's breath in their hair.

Their colonial nosegays combined yellow and bronze pompons, baby's breath and wheat with open stems. The flower girl carried a miniature wicker basket filled with rose petals.

Serving as best man was Steven Howard, Polo. Paul Grobe, Michael Pavesich and Jeffrey Reglin, all of Dixon, were groomsmen. The guests were seated by Michael Galor, brother of the bride from Brookville, William E. Thomas, brother of the groom from Louisiana, Mo., and James Fletcher Jr., Dixon.

The bride's cousin, Bradley Witt, Lanark, was the ringbearer. Acolytes were Patrick Galor, brother of the bride from Brookville, and Brian Witt, cousin of the bride from Lanark.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlor with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Witt, uncle and aunt of the bride from Lanark, hosting.

The four-tiered wedding cake was served by Debra Carroll, Christine Tegeler and Mrs. Randall Mitchell, all of Polo. The bride's sister, Janet Galor, served punch while Pamela Grobe, Polo, served coffee. In charge of gifts were Susan Smith and Vicki Garman, both of Dixon. Sharon Thomas, sister of the groom from Dixon, and Glenn Kersten, Dixon, registered guests.

Since their wedding trip the newlyweds have been residing at 1306 N. Jefferson Ave., Dixon.

The new Mrs. Thomas is a 1975 graduate of Polo High School and is currently employed at Beier and Co. in Dixon. Mr. Thomas is a '75 graduate of Dixon High School and is employed as a mechanic at KAL Lines in Dixon.

Cheese Souffle

Aux Blancs

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
Pinch of salt and pepper
6 egg whites
1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
1 1/4 cups coarsely grated natural Swiss cheese

Butter the entire inside surface of a 1-quart souffle dish and coat it with fine dry bread crumbs. In a medium saucepan over low heat melt the butter; stir in the flour, salt and pepper. Off heat, gradually stir in the milk, keeping smooth. Cook over moderately low heat, stirring constantly, until boiling and thickened. Off heat stir in the cheese until melted; set aside to cool slightly. Beat together the egg whites and cream of tartar until they hold a stiff straight peak. Vigorously stir about one-third of the beaten egg whites into the cheese mixture to blend; fold in the remaining egg whites. Pour into the prepared souffle dish. Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until puffed high above dish and browned—25 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Apricot Rum Fizz

12-ounce can apricot nectar (1 1/2 cups), chilled
Juice of a large lime (2 to 3 tablespoons)
1/4 cup 80-proof gold rum
7-ounce bottle club soda (generous 3/4 cup), chilled

Just before serving stir together all the ingredients. Serve over ice cubes in large wine glasses. Makes about 3 cups—six 1/2-cup servings.

DOUBLE TROUBLE

You can camouflage a double chin by blending dark foundation on and under it.

ERA task force of NOW meets

Members of the ERA task force of the DeKalb-Sycamore chapter of the National Organization for Women met recently at the home of Lea Gorman. The task force discussed plans for a Spring Mobilization in Springfield and for a public hearing to be held in DeKalb.

Recent activities of the task force include: Cindy Warner and Lea Gorman recently answered questions about the ERA on WIXN radio; Pat Lat-tin spoke at the Kiwanis Club of Rochelle in January; Betty Mitchell and Stephany Breed talked at the Beta Sigma Phi chapter meeting in DeKalb.

The Equal Rights Amendment states that "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State, on account of sex." The task force is urging citizens to write to Sen. David Shapiro, Senate Post Office, State Capitol, Springfield, Ill. 62706, urging him to vote for the passage of the ERA.

If interested in participating in the efforts of the task force, call Lea Gorman, 895-3314, or Jane Parman, 895-6068.

The next meeting of the task force is set for March 8 at 7:30 p.m. at 921 Albert, in Sycamore.

The chances are that almost everyone who has played rubber bridge has run across today's extremely freakish hand. The reason is that if you take a new deck of cards, cut it as often as you wish, give it one absolutely perfect shuffle, cut it some more and then deal it out you will produce this monstrosity.

If the dealer happens to hold the spade suit and he and his partner are using the grand-slam force, the bidding is likely to proceed along the lines shown in the box.

Then, anything can happen with freak hands. We can imagine tens of thousands of bidding sequences. Some people may even stop short of a slam. Others will double their opponents somewhere along the way.

The one thing we can be certain of is that irrespective of who gets to bid first the side with the spades is likely to wind up playing the hand and if they get pushed into seven they are likely to be doubled. 25 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

COLOR AID

Clunky oxford or walking shoes worn with skirts and dresses look best with same color pantyhose. Otherwise, the foot looks too clumsy.

Attention! Prospective brides

Because of misunderstanding on wedding pictures, The Telegraph is asking prospective brides to arrange for good black-and-white wedding pictures for use with wedding stories.

Color photographs and black-and-white prints off a color negative are unsatisfactory for good newspaper reproduction.

Rather than be disappointed by having a picture rejected by the newspaper, we are advising brides to insist on a black-and-white picture shot with black-and-white film.

Should soldier boy marry or go AWOL?

Dear Ann Landers: I am a retired army major, age 61, and a widower. Several months ago I met an attractive woman, 55. She is a retired army lieutenant colonel. We have become quite intimate and I would like to marry her.

The problem is she insists that because she outranks me I must salute her every night before we go to bed. This is annoying because she is only one rank above me. It's not as if she were a general.

Should I marry her, or go AWOL? — Soldier Boy, Ret.

Dear Soldier Boy: By all means, go over the hill. It's obvious your brains have already gone AWOL, but your writing hand is still on active duty. If you hadn't written to me on stationery from the Army-Navy Club in Washington, D.C., I'd have sworn the Yalkees were at it again.

Dear Ann Landers: Your advice to "A Little Worried" was "a little crazy." Just because a man comes straight home from work every night and never goes anywhere without his wife is no sign he isn't doing plenty of diddlin' on the side.

Clarence and I have been married 17 years. We have five children who think their dad is the greatest.

Clarence works six days and six nights a week and never goes anywhere without me. The hitch is that his work affords him ample opportunity to do as he darned well pleases. His faithful employees are great at covering up for him. He is always "out on a job" but no one ever knows exactly where.

The poor dear works 90 hours a week (for "us," he says). In the meantime he is seen in the goldarnest places with the most interesting-looking dolls. No wonder he's exhausted when he comes home at night. It's all he can do to fall in bed and snore his head off till the alarm clock rings at 6:00 a.m.

Why do I put up with it? Because I've taken your advice, Ann, and asked myself:

"Would I be better off with him or without him?" And the answer always comes out in favor of keeping two eyes closed and one mouth shut. — Nobody's Fool

Dear N.F.: You and thousands of others. The solution to the straying husband problem isn't engraved on the Rosetta Stone. Each woman should listen to her own drummer and march accordingly.

Dear Ann Landers: You seem to be a person who has it all together. Will you please tell me why some people NEVER answer letters? I have friends and relatives who have owed me letters for years. I've written to some of them five and six times without a single response.

One friend in particular has phoned at least three times and taken an oath that a letter will be in the mail "tomorrow." It never is. Are such people liars? Are they crazy? Or are they just slobs? How do you classify them, Ann? — Nothing In My Mailbox

Dear Box: They may be neighter liars, crazies or slobs. They just might be poor spellers, unsure of their grammar or ashamed of their penmanship. Such people protect themselves against exposure by not writing. So temper your judgment with mercy.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE G-615: Stacia T., aged 20, is a coed majoring in psychology.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "in your 'Worry Clinic' column you mentioned that women are more childlike in their emotions than are men.

"We advocates of the Equal Rights Amendment (ERA) challenge your statement!" "So how do you justify picking on women like that?"

Sex Egotists
In childhood, boys and girls argue violently as to which sex is more important, and that is typical of the 10-year-old "Gang" stage of emotional development.

But by adulthood, most mature men and women no longer indulge in such juvenile debates.

Those who do, however, as the ERA advocates, thus indicate they are still back at that immature emotional level of youngsters!

Another calssical symbol of childish emotions is the ease with which you shed tears over minor frustrations or transient physical pain, such as a pinched finger.

Plus thoughtlessness in social situations!

Children routinely cry loudly when they are hurt, either mentally or physically, and are also oblivious of the feelings of others.

Using those standard yardsticks of emotional maturity, answer the following questions:

(1) Do men or women hold up the bathroom longer?

(2) Which sex is last to get into the auto when heading for church or other gatherings?

(3) Which runs to the other for a convenient shoulder on which to cry?

(4) Which holds up the waiter while trying to decide which menu item to select; then finally says, "I'll take the same?"

(5) At church in cold weather, which thoughtfully removes its overcoat at the rear but which waits till seated down front to twist and squirm in removing the coat?

(6) Which is more likely to dawdle at the table like toddlers?

(7) Which races up to a red light; then jams on the brakes?

(8) Which is more likely to cough across the dinner table without turning the head or covering the mouth?

(9) Which is more likely to patronize one merchant; then ask favors or church contributions from the shunned storekeeper?

(10) Which is more likely to slam a door instead of softly closing it when slipping out of the sanctuary during a sermon?

You can develop an interesting debate among teenagers by expanding this list of specific items which tend to separate the sexes.

Even after marriage, for example, which is more likely to pack a suitcase and run back home to Mamma?

And apply rouge or lipstick while out in public?

Or demand equal rights; then whimper because it still wants the other sex to show continued favors, called gallantry?

But God Almighty apparently intended one sex to always remain half adult, half child, in order to serve as the go-between for children and the other parent.

Women remain shorter and weaker than men and thus better able to understand the hurts of kiddies, which is why they usually make better parents.

But I'm not "picking on women" when I outline such sex differences!

Send for my booklet "Sex Differences Between Men and Women," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Melott, Ind. 47958, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets).

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Wednesday, Feb. 25, the 56th day of 1976. There are 310 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1793, the heads of the various U.S. government departments met with President George Washington at his home. It was the first recorded Cabinet meeting.

On this date: In 1570, Queen Elizabeth I of England was excommunicated by Pope Pius IV.

In 1783, Denmark recognized the independence of the United States.

In 1913, the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution went into effect, giving Congress the authority to levy income taxes.

In 1919, Oregon became the first state to tax gasoline.

In 1927, the people of the American Virgin Islands were granted U.S. citizenship.

In 1956, Nikita Khrushchev went before a Communist Party congress in Moscow and denounced the late Soviet dictator, Joseph Stalin.

Ten years ago: More than one foot of snow blanketed the U.S. East Coast from North Carolina to New England, hampering air and highway traffic and forcing hundreds of schools to close.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon made a "State of the World" report and said that Communist aggression was failing in Southeast Asia.

One year ago: President Ford warned that Cambodia would fall to the Communists if the U.S. Congress did not provide funds for the country's defense.

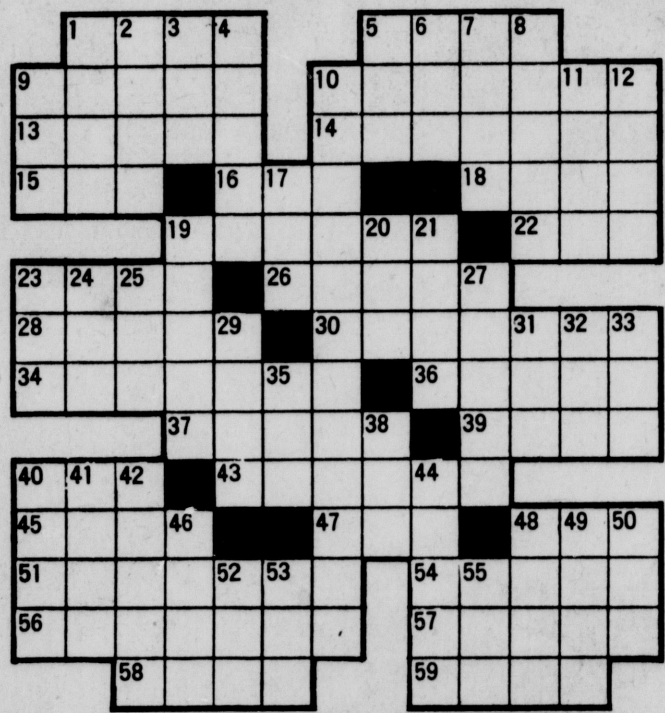

Today's birthdays: Democratic Senator John McClellan of Arkansas is 80 years old. Former Beale George Harrison is 33.

Thought for today: A hungry man is not a free man — Adlai Stevenson, 1900-1965.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, in Cambridge, Mass., Gen. George Washington received a report from a Bostonian that the British had taken over every ship in the harbor of the occupied city.

Ronald Reagan arrives at Dixon High School

DIXON EVENING TELEGRAPH, Wed., Feb. 25, 1976 Page 8

Candidate steps from car following motorcade to Dixon.

Reagan, wife Nancy, meet Police Chief Earl Kelchner.

Presidential hopeful chats privately with Dixon Police Chief.

All smiles as Petra Rusev talks with the Reagans. Rusev spearheaded auditorium fund drive and the former governor expressed interest in the project by mailing the first contribution.

At the podium, Reagan met with his former principal and drama instructor, B. J. Frazier. Seated from left are Nancy Reagan, Norma Shapiro, wife of Sen. David Shapiro, Amboy, who was unable to attend due to illness; Herb Henning, chairman of the Republican Central Committee; Dan Moats, master of ceremonies, and Kirt Swanson, FFA president.

In Tampico Reagan renewed friendship with his fifth-grade teacher, Gladys Jamison. He attended E. C. Smith Elementary School in Dixon. Jamison is a resident at Rest Have Nursing Home, Morrison.

→ FFA President Kirt Swanson presented Reagan a plaque in honor of FFA Week.

A crowd estimated at 4,300 jammed Lancaster Auditorium to hear Reagan.

The event was covered by a press corps which included the local media as well as many national news networks.

Ronald Reagan expounds on his political views and some remembrances of the town he grew up in, on a specially prepared platform (above left) to "Welcome Dutch home."

The Reagans take a seat at Lancaster Gymnasium as the festivities' speeches begin.

"Pat, would you give me a hand here? I seem to have forgotten how to pack!"

The Doctor Says:

Elephantiasis is swelling of legs caused by worm

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have a problem for you to solve. What is elephantiasis and where does it originate? Is there any cure for it or any specialists? What type of doctor would I have to see for results? I need help badly.

DEAR READER—You have come up with a rare one in this country. The term elephantiasis refers to swelling and enlargement of the legs to resemble the legs of an elephant. Classically, the condition is caused by an infestation with a thread-like worm. The disease is also called filariasis. The tiny adult worm is from two to four inches long and tends to invade and block the lymphatics. The inguinal region around the hip and inner aspect of the thigh is commonly involved.

The worms cause inflammation and blockage of the lymphatic system. The blocked lymphatic channels leads to the marked swelling. In men, the lymphatics to the scrotum are often involved. The blockage causes progressive and enormous swelling of the scrotum. In fact, the scrotum may be so large that it hangs below the knees and is equally large in all diameters. Its size may be so huge that the man may have trouble with normal physical activity.

This disease is seen primarily in Africa, tropical coastal areas of Asia and in the northern countries of South America. The disease is spread by mosquitoes, and man is the only known intermediate host.

At night the young smaller worms are in the blood stream. A mosquito bites the infected person and draws in the filariae and they remain in the mouth for a couple of weeks. When the mosquito bites the next victim it inoculates him with the micro-worm.

The lymphatics become inflamed from the invasion and the process begins. Initially the limb involved may be shiny and swollen, but eventually the skin becomes scaly and cracked and the skin is thickened.

The worms can be killed by various medicines and the enlarged scrotum can be surgically removed. Incidentally, this can be done without damaging the testicles. Similar swollen enlarged tissues can be removed from the legs or even the breast when it is involved. There are medicines for prevention of infestation available to those traveling to areas where the disease is common.

The term elephantiasis has also been applied to any type of swelling that causes marked enlargements similar to those I have mentioned. I suspect that must be the situation in your case.

What kind of doctor should you see? A good place to start would be with your family doctor. He can refer you to a specialist in internal medicine if you need that, if he is not a specialist in the area himself. If you need surgery he can also arrange that.

Environmental council rates candidates

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Environmental Council, a Springfield-based conservation lobby, today released its annual list of the state's best and worst lawmakers.

Fifteen General Assemblymen—all Democrats save one—are designated Environmental Legislators of the Year. Thirteen others—eight Republicans and five Democrats—are assigned to a "baker's dozen" for their performances.

Each is ranked according to his ballots on 15 House and 12 Senate bills of special interest to the IEC and Students for Environmental Concerns, an affiliated group at the University of Illinois which also analyzed the voting records.

Among the key bills are those which would have required labeling of household appliances with energy consumption figures, establishment of insulation standards for new buildings, doubling the budget of the Nature Preserves Commission, creation of a land resources study commission and establishment of a state solar energy program.

Here, according to the lobbyists, are the top 15:

—Rep. Robert Downs, D-Oak Park. Voted correctly on 13 of 15 bills and co-sponsored a measure requiring deposits on throwaway bottles and cans.

—Rep. Alan Greiman, D-Skokie. Scored 15 of 15 correct votes, co-sponsored a bottle deposit bill.

—Rep. James Houlihan, D-Chicago. Scored 14 of 15, co-sponsored the Natural Rivers and Wetlands Act and the land use study commission bill.

—Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie. Scored 100 per cent and co-sponsored such measures as would have required automobiles and trucks to meet state noise pollution requirements and prevented public utilities from considering advertising expenses when setting rates.

—Rep. Richard Kelly, D-East Hazel Crest. Went 14 for 15 and was one of two executive committeemen to vote for the beverage container bill.

—Rep. Joseph Lundy, D-Evanston. Co-sponsored bill for state solar energy program, 14 of 15 correct votes.

—Rep. Robert Mann, D-Chicago. Sponsored a series of bills to protect Lake Michigan, 13 of 15.

—Rep. Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine. Voted correct on 14 of 15 and sponsored the land resources commission bill.

—Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park. Chairman of the House Environment, Energy and Natural Resources Committee, 100 per cent, said to have the best environmental record in the lower chamber.

—Rep. Glenn Schneider, D-Naperville. Voted 100 per cent, sponsored solid waste disposal regulation amendments and the vehicle noise pollution bill.

—Rep. Paul Stone, D-Sullivan. Voted with the IEC on six controversial bills and 14 of the 15 selected.

—Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield. Voted for 10 of the 12 bills possible in the Senate and, in that chamber, sponsored the waste paper recovery bill, the solar energy bill and a bottle bill.

—Sen. Vivian Hickey, D-Rockford. Went 9 of 12, lobbied for larger Nature Preserves Commission appropriation.

—Sen. Dawn Netsch, D-Chicago. Best Senate voting record, 11 for 12.

—Sen. Donald Wooten, D-Rock Island. Voted 10 for 12 and sponsored a bill requiring the report of all nuclear incidents at atomic power plants to state civil defense.

Indecency charge filed

Dixon Police officers arrested a Dixon man early Sunday morning on a charge of public indecency.

Charged was Marshall Ira Wilcox, 58, 836 Zuend Court. Officers said that, as they drove by Wilcox's residence, he was standing at his west window dressed in a red robe. As the patrol car drove by the house, Wilcox exposed himself, according to the police reports. Officers said that Wilcox also went to a north window of his residence, performing a similar act.
Wilcox was taken into custody and released on bond to appear in court March 18.

Grand opening for Gibson's

Workmen this morning were busy completing the erection of a sign renaming the shopping center to Gibson's Discount Center Shopping Center (Telegraph Photo)

Gibson Discount Center, Dixon's newest enlarged business, held its grand opening this morning in the 54,590 square-foot department store formerly occupied by W. T. Grant in the Grant City Shopping Center located at 1321 Galena Ave.

It was also announced by Arlen Shopping Centers Company of Chattanooga, Tenn., developer of the shopping center which staged its grand opening on Oct. 20, 1973, that the shopping center will now be known as Gibson Discount Center Shopping Center.

When the new Gibson store opened, 45 employees were ready to greet and assist customers for the first time. Charles Kankelfitz, manager of the new Gibson store for Dixon, pointed out that extra checkout lanes were available for the official grand opening of the Gibson Discount Center.

Gibson Discount Center will sell almost everything a family needs—automotive items, housewares, shoes, sporting goods, paint, hardware, candy, stationery, women's fashions, men's and boys' wear, infants' clothing, school supplies, radios and cleaning supplies.

The Gibson store in Dixon is owned by Pamida, Inc., Omaha, Neb., and operated under a franchise agreement from the Gibson Company in Seagoville, Tex. There are approximately 652 stores in 42 states under the name Gibson. The organization now ranks as the largest discounter in the United States.

Pamida holds the largest number of franchises under one ownership. Its main offices and warehouses are located in Omaha. The Omaha headquarters serves as a central facility for all the stores, which now total 192.

Pamida's stores cover 12 states in the Midwest and Rocky Mountain region. There are 18 Gibson Discount Stores in the state of Illinois, all owned by Pamida.

The first Pamida-owned Gibson store was opened in Knoxville, Iowa, in November 1963. Jim Witherspoon, chairman of the board, and Lee Wegener, president, rented an empty furniture store and opened the discount business.

The store did so well on the first day that Jim and Lee opened a second store two weeks later in Oskaloosa, Iowa. Since then, the company has had a steady growth rate. According to Bill Potter, operations manager for Pamida, the company will have 200 stores by the end of this year.

Wegener says economy, flexibility and volume buying are the ingredients which have promoted the growth of Pamida's Gibson Discount Centers.

The firm puts up their stores mainly in small communities which average 8,700 in population. Witherspoon says his store's philosophy is to give the rural people a way to shop conveniently but without high convenience prices.

Deaths, Funerals

Hazel B. Dyche

Hazel B. Dyche, 56, of 1201 W. 17th St., Rock Falls, died Tuesday at Community General Hospital.
She was born in Rock Falls July 27, 1919, the daughter of John and Nora (Brown) Royer Sr. She married Walter Dyche Aug. 31, 1935, in Rock Falls.
Her parents preceded her in death.

Survivors include her husband; a son, Walter W. (Bill) Jr., Dixon; three grandchildren; five brothers, John Jr., Jim, Floyd, Marion, Rock Falls, and Walter, Cherry Valley, Calif.; and two sisters, Mrs. Homer (Margaret) Weeks, Sterling, and Mrs. Leslie (Doris) Berger, Sterling.
Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in Wheelock-Allen Funeral Home, with the Rev. R. W. Taubenheim, pastor of Calgary Evangelical Congregational Church, Hoopole, officiating. Burial will be in Oak Knoll Memorial Park.
Visitation will be tonight from 7 to 9 p.m. at the funeral home.

There was another phase in the primary, and Ford was winning that decisively. With the vote count nearing completion, delegates backing him for the nomination led for 19 of the 21 seats New Hampshire will have at the Republican National Convention.
Carter led for 13 of the 17 Democratic delegates, Udall for four.
Howard H. Callaway, Ford's national campaign manager, said Reagan had been beaten in his strongest northern state. Reagan said he had done better than anyone should have expected.
They can argue about that forever—or at least until the next primary. The fact is that Ford won, in a state where Reagan enjoyed the ardent support of the dominant newspaper, the Manchester Union-Leader, the backing of Gov. Meldrim Thomson and a superior campaign organization.
Reagan was campaigning today in Illinois, which holds its primary March 16, but by nighttime, he is due in Tampa, Fla. And the New Hampshire loss may well lead him to intensify his personal campaign in Florida.
"They told us that any kind of a victory would help the President in Florida," a Ford campaign strategist said. "Well, we've given them any kind of a victory."
The Reagan ploy had been to try to hold Ford to the standard expected of elected presidents. That's what did in Lyndon B. Johnson eight years ago, when he won the New Hampshire primary but was rated a loser because he only had a seven point margin.
But Ford is not an elected President. He holds office by appointment and succession. The New Hampshire primary was his first electoral test outside the Grand Rapids, Mich., congressional district that 13 times elected him to the House.
And Reagan, actually, has been on both sides of the argument, saying on one hand that he shouldn't be expected to beat an incumbent, and on the other that he has the background to prove he can win elections.
For what it's worth, there also is a bit of history on Ford's side now. There have been six previous presidential preference primaries here and, in that time, no candidate who did not win in New Hampshire has made it to the White House.

Drive for 'political honesty' amendments moves ahead

By WILLIAM PRATER
Associated Press Writer

A political reform campaign is underway in Illinois that would ignore the General Assembly and add three so-called "political honesty" amendments to the state Constitution by citizen initiative.

The Coalition For Political Honesty, based in the Chicago suburb of Oak Park, hopes to obtain enough signatures to put the amendments on the ballot in the November general election.

The Coalition's advocates, most prominent of whom are the independent Democrats led by Gov. Daniel Walker, call it a grass roots movement formed out of indignation over widespread abuse in the General Assembly.

Its opponents, most notably regular Democratic party candidates in the March 16 primary, say the stated aims are generally laudable but the initiatives are poorly written and likely politically motivated.

Assuming the necessary 375,000 signatures are gathered by May 1, the proposals will appear on a separate ballot. Each proposed amendment will be voted on separately.

One would "prohibit members of the General Assembly from receiving compensation from any other governmental entity during their terms as members of the General Assembly" — a practice commonly called "double-dipping."

The second would prohibit legislators "who have a conflict of interest as a result of a personal, family or financial interest in a bill from voting on that bill."

The third would prevent legislators from "receiving payments of salary in advance of performance of duties as members of the General Assembly." Currently, they may draw their entire $40,000 salary at the start of their two-year terms.

The Coalition began its petition drive about Jan. 1 and now has about 150,000 signatures from around the state, a spokesman said. The group hopes to obtain half a million names, just for good measure.

The initiatives must be approved by either a simple majority of all persons voting in the presidential election, or three-fifths of the people voting on the amendments.

Walker, who created a state ethics board by executive order and requires his top appointees to make full financial disclosure, said he fully supports Political Honesty initiatives.

"In the best of all possible worlds, they should be handled by legislation," he said recently. "But I don't see any hope of getting it accomplished in the legislature."

The Coalition draws examples from recent political history to point out alleged abuses of present laws.

For instance, in its call for support, the Coalition asked: "Is it trivial that politicians like former Sen. Donald Swi-narski can keep the $40,000 salary he drew in advance — even though he served only a few weeks before entering federal prison?"

The Chicago Democrat pleaded guilty last March of cheating on his 1969 income tax return in plea bargaining stemming from extortion charges.

The Illinois attorney general's office said at the time that Swinarski must forfeit his seat and salary, but to date Swinarski has not returned the money.

"The legislature has had its chance at self-reform," Coalition Chairman David Ellsworth said. "Proposals similar to ours have met with overwhelming defeat. It is naive to expect the Springfield politicians to mend their ways."

But the Coalition, which has issued among other things a "roll call of double-dipper representatives," has come under criticism of its own.

State Sen. Vincent DeMuzio, D-Carlinville, has been chiding state Treasurer Alan J. Dixon, his opponent in the primary race for treasurer, for not supporting the initiatives.

Dixon has not gotten into a debate on the issue, saying only that such proposals should be dealt with as possible state statutes, not as part of the state Constitution.

His press secretary, however, suggests that if DeMuzio intends to endorse the initiatives, he should practice what he preaches.

He was quoted in the Chicago Tribune recently as calling DeMuzio "the big dipper." He said DeMuzio's father, mother and three sisters are on the state payrolls, drawing combined salaries of $64,000.

The Coalition shrugs off allegations that the initiatives are campaign issues dreamed up by Walker's maverick Democrats.

It says membership is open to all and includes students, environmentalists and civic, political and fraternal groups.

Among organizations endorsing the three proposed amendments are Illinois Common Cause, the Executive Committee of the Illinois Jaycees, the Association of Illinois Student Governments.

AMBOY— Awards of the year were announced and three new directors were elected at the annual dinner meeting of the Lee County Soil and Water Conservation District held in Loveland Community House, Dixon, Tuesday night.

Elroy Lauer, district chairman who presided at the meeting, was honored as conservation director of the year in the county and as first runner-up in state competition. Lauer has served on the county conservation board for 22 years and had previously been honored for conservation practices on his 504-acre farm in Sublette Township.

Gary Carlson, social studies teacher of the Amboy High School, was honored as conservation teacher of the year and Mr. and Mrs. John Burke received the Lee County conservation farmer of the year award.

Burke farms 972 acres in May and Marion Townships and is assisted by his son, James. He became a soil and water conservation cooperater in 1961 when he built a farm pond and developed a conservation project plan for a 200-acre farm. As the farm enterprise has grown, a conservation plan has been established for each new acreage. He uses a combination of conservation practices fitted to each field and crop rotation includes alfalfa field utilized by 130 head of feeder cattle.

The Lee County district was also honored for third consecutive year as an outstanding conservation district.

On the balloting by landowners and tenants, Elroy Lauer was re-elected as district director, also James Bond Jr., Paw Paw, and Ralph Dewey, Dixon. They will serve for two-year terms.

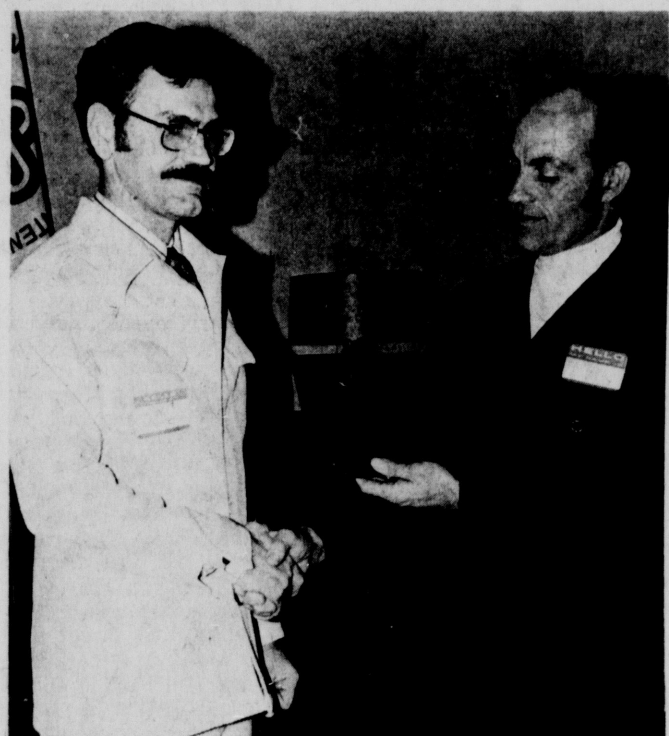

Steven Zwicker, who is the county soil survey party chief, spoke briefly on the soil map which will be made of Lee County through aerial survey and other methods, indicating that 80 different soil types have been identified in the county.

Accused in disturbance at hospital

A patient at KSB Hospital was arrested Tuesday night following a disturbance on the second floor.

Policemen were called to the hospital at 10:14 p.m. by Jane Melvin, a nurse, who said that Ricky Barton, 20, of 1620 W. Third St., was causing trouble. As policemen were on the elevator between the second and third floors, they said they could hear screams. When they got to the second floor, they found Barton twisting the Melvin woman's arm.

Barton, who was arrested for battery and disorderly conduct, is in jail pending a court appearance today.

Joseph Berta III spoke on the federal pollution control act and how it would affect farmers. He stated that each individual would be allowed freedom to operate land in any way they wished so long as it didn't create pollution problems in streams and on other property.

A special bicentennial program, "200 Years," was presented by Robert Walker, specialist in Natural Resources of the Cooperative Extension Service.

The annual report of the county district indicated: 26,000 tree seedlings had been planted in 1975, a five-week survey course held at Sauk Valley College; two students, Suzanne Baird and Lita Archer, sent to summer conservation camp, a news letter published bimonthly, a ministers breakfast held to kick-off stewardship week, the

Frobisher's Folly

A single black rock turned this man's voyage of discovery 400 years ago into a rush for fool's gold. Sir Martin Frobisher set out from England in 1576 to find a northwest passage from Europe to the Orient. In July, his ships entered a body of water that Frobisher thought was the passage to the South Seas. He named it Frobisher Straits. The dead-end sound is now known as Frobisher Bay. Frobisher brought home a heavy, black rock, which an assayer claimed was gold ore. Visions of Eldorado led the Queen of England to finance two more trips by Frobisher. But no gold was found. The rock was eventually proved to be common gneiss.

DO YOU KNOW — Who was the Queen of England when Frobisher began his voyages?

TUESDAY'S ANSWER — Nikita Khrushchev introduced the Soviet policy of "destalinization."

Howlett bares list of 1972 campaign gifts

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — An $8,000 contribution from a Chicagoan was listed as the single largest donation given to Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett's 1972 campaign.

The contribution from Lee H. Freeman of Chicago was listed in an 83-page handwritten report released Tuesday by the secretary of state's office. The report was said to contain all contributions to his 1972 campaign, including some made in 1971.

The next two largest single contributors to Howlett's campaign were Illinois officials of the United Auto Workers.

Robert Johnston of Chicago, president of the state UAW, contributed $6,700, according to the list, while Ray Schoessling of Chicago, now general secretary-treasurer of the international UAW, was listed as contributing $6,000.

The report included the names of 165 persons who contributed $1,000 or more to Howlett's 1972 campaign in which he defeated Republican Edmund J. Kucharski for his present post. He was unopposed in the 1972 primary.

Howlett now is waging a primary campaign battle against Gov. Daniel Walker for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination March 16.

Only two copies of the list were made available to reporters for inspection, one at the State Capitol in Springfield and one at Howlett campaign headquarters in Chicago.

David Green, chairman of Walker's campaign committee, called the circumstances of the Howlett disclosure "a fraud and a disgrace...shrouded in secrecy."

Green said he suspected the extraordinary precautions were taken "to conceal as many facts as could be concealed." He said there was no immediate way for reporters to determine the corporate ties and real identities of the persons Howlett's lists as contributors because of the way the lists were released.

The list included the name of each donor, his address and hometown and the amount of the contribution. The total amount of contributions to the 1972 campaign was not listed.

State Rep. E. J. "Zeke" Giorgi, a Rockford Democrat who supported Walker frequently in the legislature but has now endorsed Howlett in the Democratic primary for governor, was listed as a $5,000 contributor. Contacted in Rockford, he said the money was raised at a 1972 dinner.

Another person listed as a contributor of $5,000 was Christian County Democratic Chairman C.F. Bertinetti, who works for Walker as a liaison with two state agencies.

In a telephone interview from his Taylorville home, Bertinetti said he never contributed personally to any political campaign and said he merely signed a check for Howlett's campaign on behalf of the Christian County Democratic central committee.

Among the largest contributors were J.W. Sleeper of Sterling, $4,450; Louis Peick of Chicago, $4,000; Joseph Germano of Chicago, $3,500, and George Sullivan Sr. and George Sullivan Jr. of Chicago, $2,500 each.

Also listed as contributors were officials of three contractors on the State Capitol remodeling project which Howlett, as secretary of state, oversees. Contractor donors included Mike Vogt, president of Petersburg Plumbing and Heating Co., which holds a $591,004 state contract; R.D. Lawrence of R.D. Lawrence Construction Co., which holds $950,000 in remodeling contracts; and Arcoline Egizil, secretary of Egizil Electric Co., which has more than $400,000 in state contracts.

Howlett's statements said Vogt contributed $2,500; Lawrence $1,050; and Egizil, $1,000.

State Auditor General Robert Cronson of Springfield confirmed he donated $1,000 to the Howlett campaign.

Walker has promised to disclose his 1972 campaign contributors before the primary election.

He had refused to disclose them during the first three years of his administration because, he said, his opponents refused to do so.

But two weeks ago, he said through Green that he would do so while conceding the contributors "could feel the brunt of the retaliation" from the party organization.

Green said at the time the decision to disclose the contributors was made "to prevent (Chicago Mayor Richard J.) Daley and Howlett from obscuring a central issue in this campaign—Howlett's personal integrity and honesty in office."

Howlett received a total of $7,500 in contributions from persons bearing the surname Kaplan. Howlett was a $15,000-a-year consultant to Sun Steel Co. of Chicago Heights during 15 years as state auditor and secretary of state.

Sun Steel is owned by M.S. Kaplan Co. of Chicago.

Bertha W. Kaplan of Chicago was listed as a $3,000 contributor; Stephen M. Kaplan of Chicago was listed as contributing $1,500; Lawrence S. and M.S. Kaplan of Chicago were named on the list as $1,000 contributors, as was Robert Kaplan of Chicago Heights.

A Howlett aide declined to say which, if any, of the Kaplans was related to those who own the Sun Steel Co. of Chicago Heights.

Though Howlett said the consultant job did not represent a conflict of interest with his official duties, he resigned the job earlier this month, saying he did not want his association with the firm to become a campaign issue. Walker has accused Howlett of backing legislation benefiting the firm, a charge the secretary of state has denied.

Reporters had to wait in line for a turn to look at the Howlett lists.

Howlett aides refused to allow the lists out of their hands or permit reporters to photocopy pages. A spokesman for the secretary of state said this procedure was designed to restrict access to the list to bona-fide reporters only.

In the Polo Class 'A' Regional

Franklin Center edges Ashton

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor
POLO—Jeff Jahn zeroed in a dozen of 21 field goal attempts, here, Tuesday night to help Franklin Center overcome the Ashton Aces' 57 per cent shooting accuracy as the Eagles outlasted them, 65-64, in the second game of the night at the Polo Class A Regional.

The Eagles peppered the nets at a 51 per cent rate from the field, as both teams displayed fine shooting touches. Franklin Center had a 58-50 lead with 5:59 to go in the contest, after Jeff Roop fired in back-to-back two-pointers on consecutive trips down the floor, but the Eagles were then blanked in the field goal department.

Made It Close
A half-dozen shots failed and Franklin Center made it close by also missing three free throws (two first attempts of bonus situations) after the Eagles were eight of nine from the charity stripe the first half.

Marc Heinhorst tossed in two successive baskets to trim the Franklin Center advantage to four (58-54) with 5:21 left, before Jahn made both ends of a one-and-one opportunity. Rod Bunker retaliated with a two-pointer from 15 feet for the Aces and, after an Eagles miss, Jeff Meiners was fouled on the rebound by Jeff Huber (his fifth foul).

Meiners hit both of his charity tosses and, with 4:42 to go, Ashton was within two. Jeff Heckman failed on a field goal effort but sophomore center Doug Westra pulled down the board for the Eagles and was fouled. It was the fifth offensive carom for Westra on the night and the 6'1" center converted a trio of the grabs for baskets.

One Charity Toss
Westra netted one charity toss. Franklin Center got an offensive rebound each from Jahn and Doug Hillison the next time down, with Hillison dropping in a pair of free throws after being hacked. The two points boosted the Eagles margin to five (63-58) with 3:12 left, but Ashton once again stormed back.

Larry Nass swished both ends of a one-and-one, only to have Jahn duplicate the effort. Franklin Center went into its ball control offense in the final four minutes, trying to stave off the Ashton rally.

A steal and resultant layup by Mike Pfeiffer narrowed the gap to 65-62 with :36 remaining. Jahn missed a one-and-one with :11 to go and Mike Caldwell hit Heinhorst for a short jumper, with :02 left, that left the Aces trailing by one.

"Not Meant"
"It just wasn't meant to be," Fred Harm, Ashton coach, philosophized after the game the third loss dealt to his Aces by Franklin Center this season. "Both teams shot extremely well. They got the momentum in the third quarter and I guess that's where the story of the game was."

The Eagles outpointed the Aces 18-9 in the third period on a 9-of-14 shooting performance. Jahn was five-of-seven in the eight minutes for 10 of the markers, while Heckman, Roop, Westra and Jeff Huber tallied a field goal apiece.

Ashton, on the other hand, was 4-of-11, with two of the baskets coming in the final :29. "We kept battling back," Harm stated, "only to have the same silly mistakes we've been making all year come back to haunt us."

"Well-Played Game"
"But it was a well-played game and I have to credit our great shooting percentage for that," Harm continued. "We got the ball inside and Meiners helped out with some key baskets." Pfeiffer ended with five baskets in seven attempts, Heinhorst 7 of 12, and Caldwell 8 of 10 including six of seven the initial half.

Denny Kessel, Franklin Center mentor, pointed out, "I think the story of the game was the defensive job Jeff Huber did on Caldwell the second half. Huber stuck to him well and Caldwell got only six points (two field goals). It was a fantastic defensive job."

"Once we got ahead, Ashton couldn't run its delay offense," Kessel added. "And it hurt them not to run the slow-down as much as they would have liked. But these kids had never been beaten by Ashton and they weren't going to let it happen here."

"Bunch of Luck"
"You don't win 20 games by a bunch of luck. I'm tremendously proud of the season the kids have had. They're a great bunch of kids and they have performed much beyond any expectations the people might have had."

"We felt at half Ashton could not keep up their torrid shooting pace and we felt we had to play more aggressively, especially in attacking the ball a little bit. We had to attack more to apply more pressure to cause turnovers."

"They shot real well. We have played three fine games versus Ashton this year. Fred (Hahn) deserves a lot of credit for that basketball program and I wish him and Ashton a lot of continued success."

The "torrid shooting pace" Kessel mentioned was 15 hoops in 21 shots by the Aces in the initial half. Caldwell was five-of-five in the opening half, with a couple from the key and another pair of spinning, twisting drives.

Pfeiffer added a short jumper and two free throws as the Aces grabbed an 18-16 first-quarter advantage. Heinhorst and Meiners chipped in with a basket each. Jahn had 10 counters for Franklin Center, with Heckman, Hillison and Westra tossing in two apiece. Jahn was four of seven from the field.

Westra tallied six points, while Heckman, Roop and Jahn had four each in the second stanza. Westra had an offensive rebound of a Roop miss plus four free throws. Heckman hit a hook shot and a pair of charity tosses.

From the Key
Jahn chipped in with a basket from the key and a 15-footer, while Roop did likewise. The Eagles, 7-for-14 in the opening frame, hit 6-of-12 this time, but Ashton canned 7-of-11.

Heinhorst paced the Aces with six points, Pfeiffer had five, Caldwell four, while Rod Bunker and Meiners added two each. Heinhorst drilled three buckets, while Pfeiffer rolled under for one basket plus three charity tosses. Meiners put in an off-balance spinning basket, with :02 to go, to up Ashton's lead to 37-34 at half.

25 Baskets Each
Franklin Center ended with 25 baskets in 49 shots, while the Aces had 25 hoops in 44 attempts. Westra paced the Eagles with 10 rebounds. Jahn led Franklin Center with 30 points on 12 baskets and six free throws.

Westra got 11 and Roop 10. Caldwell ended with 20 for Ashton. Pfeiffer added 15 and Heinhorst 14. Each team missed four free throws. Ashton finished the campaign 9-15 under first-year coach Harm. Franklin Center will now meet Forreston at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Clippers win, Comets advance

Newman beat Earlville in the second game of the night 68-51, to set up a Clippers-Comets semi-final battle at 7:30 p.m., Thursday.

"You have to give LaMoille and their coach a lot of credit," stated Gary Croegaert, Amboy head varsity coach. "They just threw the records out the window and they came to play basketball. We got off to a slow start because of our poor shooting while they were hitting well."

"These teams that have nothing to lose just seem to come out and burn the nets," Croegaert continued. "They were seven of 14 in the first quarter while we were five of 15. Stouffer (Bill) had three-for-three from 20 feet while (Brad) Geuther had seven points on two baskets and three free throws."

"Their quickness at the guard positions hurt us. We had trouble matching up with them. If we didn't have lots of help from our bench, we'd be watching the rest of the tournament," Croegaert added.

"Jim Barida and Scott Stephenitch, our two juniors (guard and forward, respectively) turned the game around. Midway through the second quarter, we were really faltering along. Braid and Stephenitch and some sensational shooting and passing by (Greg) Esgar got us untracked."

"We had Esgar 10 of 13 from the field along with seven assists in what was just a super game. The third quarter, we took control and picked up defensively. Braid and Stephenitch took care of Stouffer and Geuther and it seemed like we were coasting along to an easy win."

"We were up 51-40 with 4½ minutes to go and then LaMoille put on a full-court zone press and our kids lost their poise. There's no denying that. We turned the ball four or five straight times and they got ahead of us."

"All this occurred in a span of 2½ minutes. With 2:00 to go, we put in Bryan Dempsey and he finally got us to moving again."

We had just been standing around and this is how you get in trouble when the other club is aggressive on defense.

"Sometimes they say you are better to be lucky than good. That is true in this case," Croegaert summed up, "or we would be out of it (the Regional) now." Amboy finished with a dozen turnovers to seven for LaMoille.

Esgar paced the Clippers with 23 points. Bothe finished with 15 and Steve Powers got 12. Stouffer had 19 and Geuther 18 for LaMoille. Amboy was 28 of 51 from the field for 55 per cent while limiting LaMoille to 22 of 54 for 41 per cent.

Cardinals defeat Hawks

By MIKE CUNIFF
POLO — While Ronald Reagan was stumping from Tampico to Sterling to Dixon to New Hampshire Tuesday, the Forreston Cardinals were moving ahead in post-season basketball action and the Oregon Hawks were dropping by the wayside.

Forreston edged the Oregon 74-69, here, in the opening game of the night at the Polo Class A Regional in a game not as close as the score would indicate. The Cardinals now will meet Franklin Center at 7:30 p.m., Thursday in a semi-final game.

Bocker Has 26
Oregon was eliminated from the Regional despite a 26-point performance by 6'3" junior forward Dave Bocker. Forreston utilized balanced scoring and strong offensive boardwork to post the victory. The Cardinals blitzed the Hawks for a 22-10 advantage in the opening eight minutes.

Forreston got four baskets from Roger Birkholz three by Carl Ratmeyer, two from Jack Dollmeyer and one each by Doug Osterloo and Mike Ross in an 11-for-22 shooting performance. The Cardinals picked up five offensive rebounds in the frame and converted four of the boards for follow-up buckets.

Only Brown did not pick up a second-chance basket. Forreston raced to an 8-0 lead as Birkholz canned a 20-footer. Dollmeyer spun back in a Ratmeyer miss, Ratmeyer did likewise to a Birkholz failure and Dollmeyer put in a turnaround jumper.

Oregon Turnovers
Three Oregon turnovers helped precipitate the Forreston streak and the Hawks missed their opening five shots before Bocker put home a 10-footer with 4:33 remaining. Mike Kump then added a 10-footer and a three-point package for the Hawks who trailed by a dozen as the quarter expired.

Forreston head varsity coach Dan Harmon started substituting midway through the second frame and the Hawks trimmed six points off the Cardinals lead. Oregon crawled back within two (27-25 and 29-27) before Birkholz and Dollmeyer each hit a 15-foot jump shot in the final :15.

Bocker, Kump and Scott Lewison had four points each for Oregon while Dave Satterfield got three and Jeff Cordes two. Osterloo had four markers for Forreston. The Cardinals still dominated the offensive boards but second-effort shots would not go down.

Four More
Forreston added four more markers to its lead in the third quarter as Brian Brown tallied 10 points including a pair of three-point plays. Brown added a driving shot and two free throws. Ratmeyer chipped in with a 15-footer and an offensive board for four markers.

Osterloo got two offensive rebounds off of Brown and Gary Bronkema misses on successive trips down the floor. Bocker had eight points for Oregon on three baskets and two free throws. Bocker got 10 markers in the final frame, all in the final 4:19 to lead his club back from a 64-52 deficit to the final spread of five points.

Dollmeyer had three blocked shots in the quarter, frustrating Lewison twice and Cordes once. Pete Williams fired in the last Forreston points via a field goal with 1:17 to go to wrap it up.

Brown Has Seven
Brown had seven of the Cardinals markers in the eight minutes on a 20-footer, an offensive rebound and three charity tosses. Five other Forreston players got two points each.

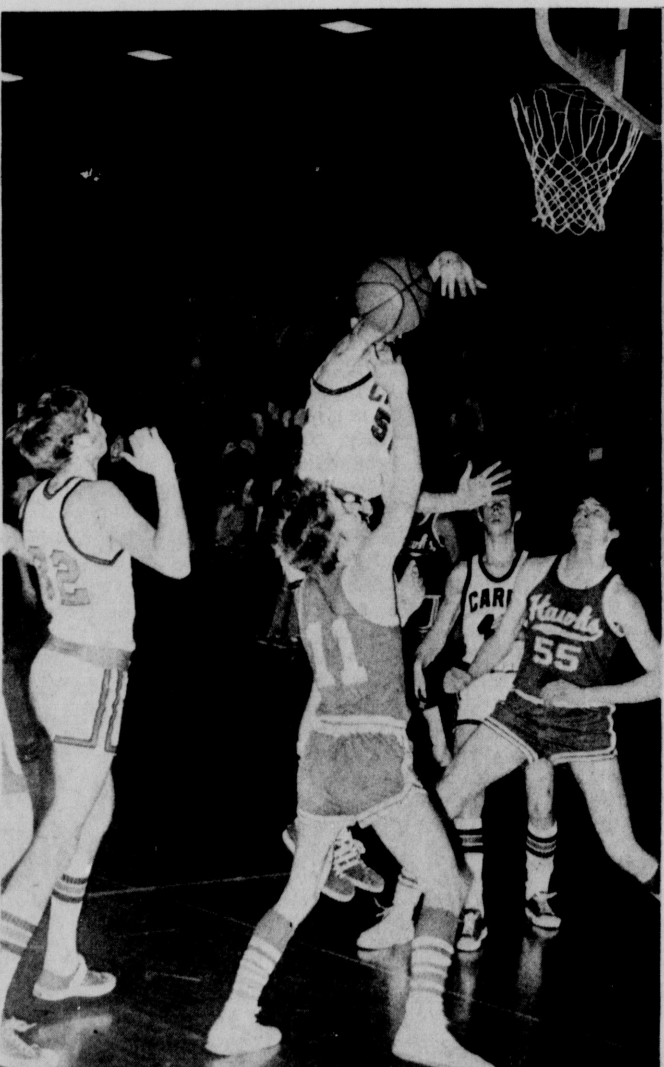

Brown ended with five baskets and nine free throws for 19 points to pace the Cardinals. Birkholz and Ratmeyer added six buckets apiece for 12 while Osterloo chipped in with five baskets and two charity tosses for a dozen markers also.

Bocker canned his 26 points and nine baskets and eight free throws. Kump got seven buckets and a solitary charity toss for 15 while Lewison finished with four baskets and the same number of free throws for a dozen.

Dixon girls rout Mendota

By JIM SPURGEON
 Telegraph Sports Editor
 The Dixon girls interscholastic varsity basketball team romped to an easy 53-23 win over Mendota at Lancaster Gymnasium Tuesday night.

Dixon controlled the entire game, grabbing a 14-4 quarter edge and going on to an easy win. Dixon controlled both the offensive and defensive boards and Mendota committed too many turnovers to stage a comeback.

Dixon wasted no time scoring as Donna Pinegar took the opening tip and converted a lay-up. Mendota's Alicia Pitstick answered the basket 16 later. Dixon then ran off eight consecutive points and the visitors never again threatened.

Betsy Flanagan grabbed an offensive rebound and scored to break the 2-2 tie. Flanagan scored again 34 later followed by a Marty Shroyer basket. Flanagan added another offensive rebound basket for a 10-2 Dixon lead.

Pitstick scored again, slicing the lead to six points but baskets by Pinegar and Lori Heeg gave Dixon a 14-4 advantage. Pitstick sliced the lead to eight but Heeg made it 10 with another bucket.

Mary Rose cut the lead to eight again but that was as close as Mendota would come. Baskets by Gail Turner, Judy Nusbaum and Kay Schrock gave the hometown a 22-8 lead. Dixon played a tough man-to-man defense, allowing the visitors only a free throw in the final 5:04 of the first half. Dixon had a 27-9 advantage at this time.

Both teams committed 16 second-half turnovers but Dixon outscored Mendota 26-14. Schrock scored Dixon's first basket on a Heeg assist via a perfectly executed play. Schrock threw the ball to Heeg, who was playing the high post, and broke down the lane. Heeg dumped the ball back to Schrock for a lay-up.

Mendota played Dixon on almost-even terms in the third quarter as the hometown posted a 12-11 advantage. Play got sloppy in the final period as both teams had nine turnovers. Mendota scored only three points in the last stanza to 14 for Dixon.

Three girls scored in double figures for the winners. Heeg led Dixon with 13 points followed by Shroyer with 12 and Flanagan 11. Pitstick had 14 for Mendota.

Many of Europe's famous rivers choked by pollution

ROME (AP) — Except for the Tiber in Rome and the Thames in London, the great rivers of Europe remain seriously polluted in spite of programs — some still on paper — to bring them back to life.

Italian officials say that in a short while the Tiber will be as clean as it was in the time of Julius Caesar. Fishermen are back on the banks of the Thames again and eating the fish they catch.

But the only likely catch in the Seine in Paris, the Danube in Vienna and the Rhine in Cologne is a case of food poisoning.

All European countries have vowed to fight pollution in their rivers, but in most cases programs have remained on paper and life in the waterways has died, an Associated Press survey discloses.

The damage ranges from the few, inedible fish that fishermen pull out of the Seine to the gradual destruction of the spawning grounds of the caviar-bearing Beluga sturgeon in the northern Caspian Sea as a result of pollution from the Volga and Ural rivers.

The British were the first to launch a serious ecological drive and now boast that their rivers are the cleanest in Europe. The Italians are now following the trend, mainly in Rome.

Two of four treatment plants installed in Rome's Tiber River have been in operation for the past couple of years, and the results have become evident as the river runs to the sea.

The plants receive raw sewage and release clean water, leaving the waste and mud trapped inside. The leavings are burned and the energy they produce is used to keep the plants going. What is left after this procedure becomes fertilizer at low cost. The two other plants are expected to start functioning later this year, and Rome authorities say the Tiber will change from sickly brown to blue — as in the days of the Roman emperors.

In the rest of Italy, however, the results have not been so encouraging. Judges have been enforcing a law for the installation of treatment plants in city sewers and industries, but in Turin and other major cities along the Po, Italy's longest river, there still are practically no fish.

London authorities say about 70 species of fish have returned to the Thames. Fishing fleets are again working the estuary, and thousands of ducks and birds, some unseen in the area since the turn of the century, winter along the river. A decade ago, the Thames was so polluted that only eels could survive in it.

The change has cost British authorities nearly half a billion dollars over the past 15 years to modernize sewage plants, build reservoirs and install a computer to monitor the quality of the water. Today, foreign visitors make a point of visiting the sewage plants at Mogden.

Five new boats carry out to sea more than 20,000 tons daily of sewage treatment residue that in the past would have ended up in the river. As a result, no raw sewage enters the Thames at any spot along its 210-mile length.

Over the past century, the Volga in the Soviet Union has been gradually transformed from a sparkling stream, rich in fish and plant life, to a murky, near-lifeless channel carrying raw sewage, oil sludge, toxic chemicals and other waste.

The once-plentiful fishing and caviar industries on the Caspian have been crippled by the effluent. It is reaping the greater share of the Caspian caviar industry as sturgeon spawn in the cleaner sea to the south.

Only in recent years have Soviet authorities come to face the problems of pollution brought about by industrialization. In March 1972, a massive clean-up campaign for the country's two major waterways, the Volga and the Ural, was disclosed. One billion rubles, the equivalent then of $1.2 billion, were allocated for the first leg of the task, 700 million rubles for installation of purification equipment in 421 plants along the rivers and 300 million for sewage treatment in 15 cities. Success has ranged from good to nonexistent.

The Volga is the Soviet Union's most vital waterway. One quarter of a million people live along its banks and tributaries. One-fifth of its cultivated land flanks the river. Industrial development along its banks is in full swing. Two-thirds of the country's river freight moves down the Volga.

Money problems, internal politics and old-fashioned nationalism have been hindering efforts to clean up the Rhine, which flows through four countries — West Germany, France, Switzerland and The Netherlands. A specially appointed agency to coordinate action has been working for four years on a convention to regulate the river's two major sources of pollution — salt from French potash mines and chemicals from West Germany's industrial giants — but so far has achieved nothing.

The four countries had decided to split costs for the storage of French salt pollutants, with the Dutch footing 34 per cent of the bill, France and West Germany 30 per cent each and the Swiss 6 per cent. Agreement stalled, however, after the French predicted the bill would be $200 million, 10 times the original estimate.

Cutting through an area of 30 million people, the Rhine is not only a major transport artery with heavy barge traffic but also the main source of drinking water and sewage disposal for the cities along its banks.

The river is often referred to as Europe's largest open sewer. West Germany's government structure, with pollution control in state rather than national hands, has complicated decision-making.

The Netherlands, however, has accused West Germany of ducking a confrontation with corporations on costly pollution controls because the industry is heavily burdened by business recession, and by Swiss and French competition.

The French, however, have found it profitable to take the problem off the hands of the central government in Paris. They have split their territory into six regions for water development, allocating $400 million for 1969-1976.

With the exception of three treatment plants being installed in Austria, at Linz, Krems and Vienna, there has been little action to keep the river alive.

Other threats to the Danube's life include the harvesting of about 140,000 tons of reeds in a single year in the delta area and the shooting by hunters of 50,000 fish-eating birds.

The number of birds in this one-time sanctuary has dropped from four million to just 700,000 in the last few years.

Overpayments found in Social Security

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — The Social Security Administration made overpayments of $197 million to the nation's elderly, blind and disabled in the first six months of a new distribution system, an independent audit report maintains.

A large share of the overpayment by the Supplemental Security Income program is claimed by 31 states which have their own state social security programs. The states plan to use the report as a basis for recovering their money.

"The negotiations are going to be interesting," said Louisiana's legislative auditor, Joe Burris, who released a copy of the report Monday.

The Washington Star last August reported that overpayments amounted to $403 million during the program's first 18 months of operation, beginning Jan. 1, 1974. It blamed the mistakes on computer errors.

At the time, Social Security administrators took issue with the Star's report of $403 million, but acknowledged there had been $285 million in overpayments that caseworkers were trying to recover.

The Social Security Administration once sent funds to each of the 31 states for distribution. The states, in turn, sent each recipient one check composed of both state and federal funds.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1974, the administration began distributing all the checks, billing the 31 states for their shares.

The most recent report was drafted by a surveillance committee composed of auditors from seven of the states and was based on an audit of the Social Security Administration by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The HEW audit, which covers only the first six months of the program, has not been completed.

The committee report said the HEW audit has disclosed serious deficiencies in internal controls exercised by SSA officials as well as disclosure of hundreds of errors in the checks to recipients.

The report did not include any specific examples.

"Many of these deficiencies continue to exist," said the report. "They undoubtedly have affected the accuracy of benefit payments for fiscal years 1975 and 1976."

The audit has discovered errors in over 50 per cent of the payment records checked, said the report.

Here is a breakdown of overpayments discovered in the states involved:

Arkansas $2.9 million, California $49.6 million, Delaware $348,000, District of Columbia $1 million, Florida $7.6 million, Georgia $8.5 million, Hawaii $688,000, Illinois $13.1 million, Indiana $2.1 million, Iowa $1.4 million, Kansas $314,000, Louisiana $7.7 million, Maine $1 million.

Maryland $3.6 million, Massachusetts $13.4 million, Michigan $7.8 million, Minnesota $3.4 million, Montana $629,000, Nevada $376,000, New Jersey $4.2 million, New York $30.2 million, Ohio $5.2 million, Pennsylvania $12.1 million, Rhode Island $1 million, South Carolina $1.4 million.

South Dakota $31,000, Tennessee $8.4 million, Utah $406,000, Washington $3.8 million, Wisconsin $3.6 million, Wyoming $111,000.

Incomes
grow more unequal

BOSTON (AP) — The distribution of income in the United States has become more unequal over the last five years, with blacks and poor whites losing ground, a Harvard University economist says.

Also, economic equity has deteriorated, Andrew F. Brimmer of the Harvard Business School said Monday.

"This is a reversal of the trends evident during the preceding decade," Brimmer told the 142nd annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in a special public lecture.

"In general," he said, "over the last five years, income has been redistributed so as to favor whites vs. blacks, the better off vs. the poor, the newer regions of the country vs. the old, and the suburbs vs. both rural areas and central cities."

During the strong expansion of the economy in the 1960s, Brimmer said, blacks, poor people and the least skilled got a somewhat larger share of total income.

"In contrast, during the last five years — under the combined impact of high inflation rates and slower economic growth — these disadvantaged groups have fallen further behind the more fortunate members of society," he said.

"Moreover, the outlook for a more equal distribution of income over the rest of this decade is far from bright," Brimmer added, in part because of what he said was an unwise national economic policy.

He said per capita black family income was 62 per cent of what white families received in 1974, down from 63 per cent five years previously. In 1964, a black family had 54 per cent of a white family's income, according to his statistics.

He said blacks received $62.9 billion in 1974, some 6.8 per cent of the nation's total income.

He said poor whites also got a lesser piece of the pie.

Brimmer, who was appointed a member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System by President Lyndon Johnson in 1966, has been a critic of the Ford administration's economic policies. He left the Federal Reserve's board of governors in 1974.
